SONS OF CONFEDERATE VETERANS

Annual Camp Christmas

One of the greatest joys of this season is the opportunity to say "Thank You" for your continued support of Kirby-Smith Camp #1209 and to wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. At this Holiday season, we remember and honor those who are no longer with us and cherish those that are. This month's meeting is our Annual Christmas Dinner on December 19, 2017 at 7:00pm at the Museum of Southern History. Your family and friends are certainly welcome at this family event. We do request that members bring their favorite side dish or dessert to add to the event. At this meeting it has been a camp tradition to collect a donation for the Jacksonville Children's Home Society (CHS). We are proud to support this worthy organization that improves the lives of about 10,000 children and family members every year. So please consider donating to the Children's Home Society as this is just one way the Sons of Confederate Veterans is making a difference in our community.

God Bless the South

Kirby Smith Camp 1209
Sons of Confederate Veterans
Jacksonville, Florida

Dear Compatriots,

On behalf of Commander in Chief Thos. V. Strain, Jr. and the entire membership of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, I wish to thank you for your generous donation to The National Confederate Museum at Historic Elm Springs in the amount of $5,000.

With so much misinformation and subjective research in today's educational systems and academia, we must have at least one national museum which interprets the War of 1861 from the South's perspective. As we work to build this museum, we should be proud that those who wish to monopolize the popular narrative of the war are attacking us with a fervent desire to destroy us. This is a badge of honor because they recognize that we will not hide the truth of the war, but rather expose it like a light that was under a pot. Thank you for your most generous contribution towards making this museum a reality!

The museum is progressing well and we are weeks away from grading the ground, running utilities, and pouring the museum foundation. The SCV is still on schedule for a July 2017 grand opening and we look forward to seeing the division here!

As part of Commander-in-Chief Strain's challenge to our camps and divisions, the organization which donates the greatest amount of money up until 31 December 2017 will receive a worthy award from the Commander in Chief. Let's build this museum, gentlemen!

Deo vindice!

Kirby-Smith Hunley Exhibit 2017 Veterans Day

On November 11, 2017 the Kirby-Smith Camp #1209 Hunley Submarine Exhibit was on display at the Jacksonville Harley Davidson Dealership. The Exhibit was well received by the crowd, who really enjoyed viewing the Confederate Submarine. It was an honor for the camp to represent the Confederate Soldiers and Sailors who fought and sacrificed all for their country.

Kirby-Smith Camp Meeting Review

Camp 1209's November meeting included Commander Calvin Hart speaking on his favorite collectible, "Confederate Kerr pistol". He gave great insight into the Kerr Pistol's Confederacy combat history.

with Army of Tenn. Cmdr. Larry Mc Cluney
as General Beauregard

Pierre Gustave Toutant Beauregard (1818-1893)

An American army officer and Confederate General became a hero in the South with his capture of Fort Sumter and his victory at the First Battle of Bull Run.

He was one of the Confederacy's eight full generals.

Beauregard was born on May 28, 1818, in St. Bernard Parish, La., and was raised on a sugar plantation. He received his education at private French schools in New Orleans and New York City and at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., from 1834 to 1838. He served as a second lieutenant of engineers on coastal surveys and defenses in Rhode Island, Florida, Louisiana, and Maryland between 1838 and 1846.

During the Civil War, P. G. T. Beauregard held six independent commands, ranging from Virginia to Tennessee to South Carolina. He proved to be a good general; his contentious personality brought him into conflict with Jefferson Davis and led to appointments in secondary theaters later in the war. He won praise for his successful defense of Charleston, S. C., from naval assault in 1863 and of Petersburg, Va., from Grant's first attacks in 1864. Beauregard's life involved a series of paradoxes. Although he was considered an ardent Southerner, his Creole appearance and style seemed alien to the Confederacy. Before battle he indulged in visionary plans, but in action he became a calm, effective officer. He affected the manners of the antebellum South, yet after the war he helped develop a "New South" of business and industry.

After the war Beauregard considered several foreign military offers but remained in the South to serve as president of the New Orleans, Jackson, and Great Northern Railroad and of the New Orleans and Carrollton streetcar line, which he revitalized. He lost control of both companies but continued until his death as a commissioner of the highly profitable Louisiana lottery. Through articles and memoirs he engaged in postwar disputes about wartime events with Davis and several Confederate generals. He participated in an abortive attempt to create a third political party (an alliance of businessmen and African Americans) during Reconstruction in Louisiana and served as state adjutant general from 1879 to 1888. He died on Feb. 20, 1893.
